Recycling program plans are at an impasse

by Dan Sanderson
Staff Writer

The future of countywide recycling appears to be in limbo given a huge budget shortfall Crawford County is facing and a request from other municipalities for the county to double its contribution for the program.

Crawford County Administrator Paul Compo said the six townships in the county are now asking the county to pay $40,000 to help fund countywide recycling as well as to purchase new recycling trailers used to collect and haul the materials.

In 2009, municipalities entered into a three-year plan to continue countywide recycling. One of the suggestions of the plan was to have Crawford County take over the operation of processing and handling recyclable materials for all entities in the county by April 1, 2012.

Under the agreement, Crawford County has contributed $20,000 toward recycling.

Last year, Grayling Charter Township lost $7,000 due to high operating cost and the low cost received for the recycled materials at its recycling and transfer station located on North Down River Road.

The current funding proposal, which splits the cost between the county, City of Grayling and the townships, has a $40,000 shortfall.

Compo said township officials want the county to fund the entire shortfall.

Township officials are citing a consent agreement reached with the previous owner of the Waters landfill, as the reason the county should raise their funding for the recycling program.

BRA TREE IS AN ANNUAL ATTRACTION FOR CANOERS, MARATHON PADDLERS

by Dan Sanderson
Staff Writer

Somewhat nearly a decade ago, a lone woman's undergarment cropped up on an oak tree, which has led to an attraction that casual canoers and the fiercest paddlers on the Main Branch of the AuSable River look forward to every year.

"I came up one weekend, looked out the kitchen window down at the river, and there was this big-black-lacy bra hanging in the branch of the oak tree," said Greg Stansbury of the "Bra Tree."

There were no signs of people, when Stansbury went down to investigate the mysterious placement of the bra nine years ago. His family has owned property, located off of Conners Flat Road, since 1953.

Stansbury left the bra in the tree, and others continued to be added.

"It became kind of a tradition," Stansbury said.

Stansbury would take the bras off the tree in October. Just like leaves sprouting on the oak tree in the spring, some of the bras in the Bra Tree collection were placed back on the tree.

"Springtime, we'll put a few seeds up on the tree and they just tend to start growing," Stansbury said.

Year after year, the Bra Tree continues to grow. A snowmobile club from Angola, Ind., which canoes the river during the summer, places a bra on the tree annually with their names signed and phone numbers. Stansbury calls the club member as well as others who leave their contact information to thank them for their donations.

About three years ago, Stansbury contemplated the end of the Bra Tree.

"I thought that it had run its course and I wasn't going to do it anymore and the paddlers were coming by practicing for the race and kept asking about the bra tree and where were the bras," Stansbury said. "It was because of the nudging of the paddlers that we started it again that year and went and hung a few more up. It seems to grow best in the summer time, when it's hot in July and August and there are a lot of canoers out."

The Bra Tree is decorated with lights and spotlights also light up the tree.

Stansbury has a home in Freeland and a business in Saginaw, which are both up for sale. He was at his cabin for the last time for the 65th annual AuSable River Canoe Marathon. He and his girlfriend, Tommi Latoff, a retired teacher who lives in Crawford County, met some of the paddlers at a pre-race meet and greet.

"We've been told many times that we're now a landmark on the river, particularly by the racers," Stansbury said.

A message to the paddlers is also part of the Bra Tree.

"I had a sign made that says: Go Paddlers. Rock this river," Latoff said. "They love that too."

Ryan Halstead, who came in second place this year paddling with Josh Sheldon, said the Bra Tree is a notable place on the river during the race.

"Every year, they have a huge bonfire," Halstead said. "They have the radio station on broadcasting the race, so you can hear where teams are at for a brief second."

Paddlers follow the growth of the Forgotten Eagles motor on to support veterans

Forgotten Eagles of Michigan rolled into Grayling last Friday. The motorcycle group placed a wreath at the American Legion Memorial in front of Crawford County Building and held a brief ceremony. The group then enjoyed a luncheon at the American Legion Post #106. Since the Ride Around Michigan was established, the Forgotten Eagles have raised nearly $118,000 for the Michigan's Veterans Trust Fund, the largest contributor since the fund was established in 1946. Funds from this year will also go the Michigan's Veterans Trust Fund, and then will be split among other veterans organizations in future years. Above, Forgotten Eagles members are pictured with a cake showing their motorcycles going down the road at their luncheon. Wellington Farm, USA diversifies in growth mode

by Dan Sanderson
Staff Writer

From the entrance to the heart of Wellington Farm, USA, the northern Michigan attraction has underwent a major overhaul as it nears its 16th year in operation.

Keeping in line with the movement to establish Grayling-area as a destination for the arts, the visitor's center was transformed into an area where the works of local artisans are on display.

"We try to keep it pretty much local with people that are not very far from here," said Patty Girard, the manager for the Wellington Farm, USA's visitor's center.

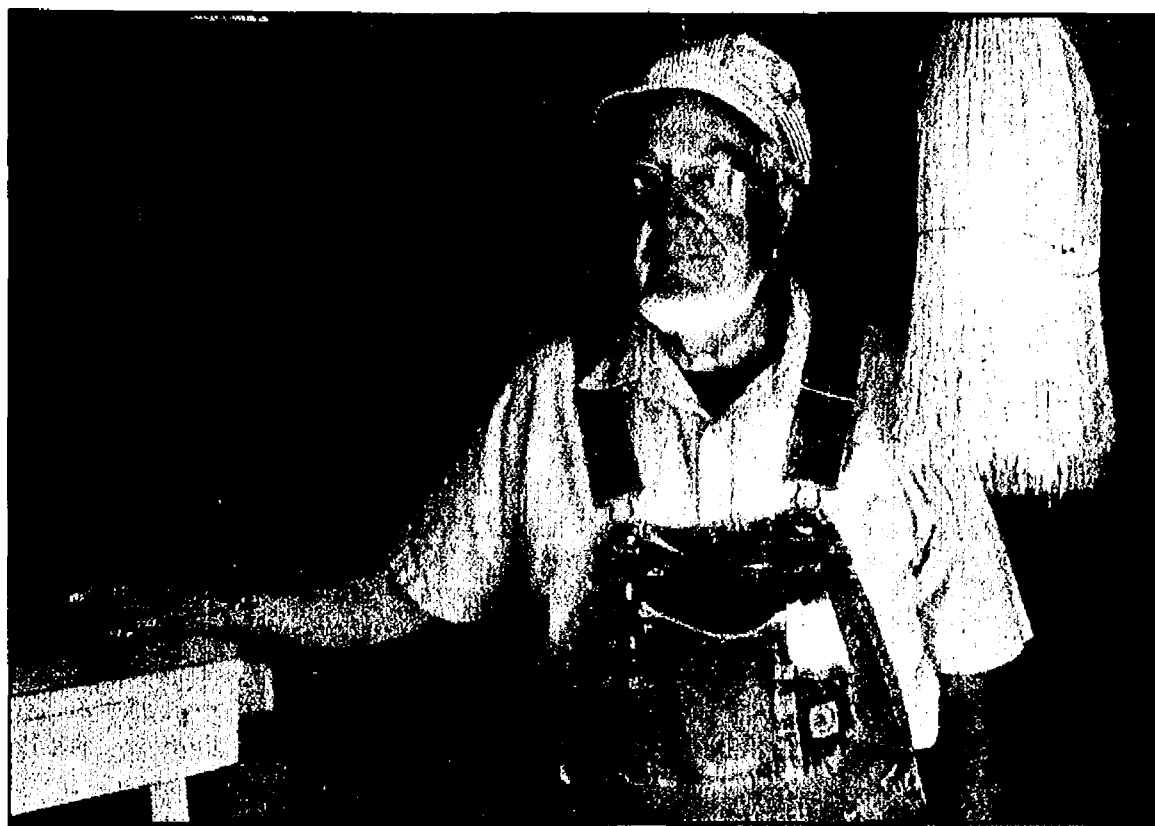

Adjacent to the visitor's center, a museum housing agriculture and local artifacts has been established.

Among the local artifacts is a beaver skin top that was owned by Rasmus Hanson, which is on loan from Arnie Stancil, the bookkeeper and a docent for Wellington Farm, USA. The hat was given to Stancil, when he became the grand master for the Grayling Masonic Lodge.

Hanson was a lumber baron, who donated land to the military to establish Camp Grayling. Next year will mark the 100th anniversary of Camp Grayling.

Another artifact in the museum is a Centaur Tractor, built in Ohio in the 1920s. The tractor was manufactured to replace the use of horses in American farm fields, but also became popular in France due to the layout of grape vineyards.

The Stittsville Church was moved to Wellington Farm, USA in the spring of 2005. Tom Coors, a retired Crawford County Sheriff's Deputy, who now runs a lawn care and landscaping business, has volunteered his time and equipment to spruce up the outside of the church.

The church sat vacant in Missaukee County when the congregation joined a nearby United Methodist Church. The church was destined to be used as a controlled burn for local firefighters before an agreement was reached to move it to Wellington Farm, USA.

Stancil recalls rehearsing for a Christmas concert with a choir at the church's former location.

"We were just awed by the acoustics," Stancil said.

The church is used for about a half dozen weddings per year as well as by couples renewing their vows to each other.

The pavilion at Wellington Farm, USA has undergone a modernization, with the installation of rest rooms, refrigerators and freezers to store food. The wood stove in the pavilion is now supplemented by electric stoves to help prepare food for large groups.

"You can cook on the wood stove, but it's not very fast," Stancil said.

The pavilion was dedicated in memory of Leon K. Johnston.

"He just worked tirelessly out here," Stancil said.

From the beginning with a tractor and sawmill, a few antique tools, a couple of engines and a storage shed, the farm park has grown to feature more than a dozen exhibit buildings and agriculture artifacts valued at around $1 million, many of which are one-of-a-kind pieces.

Stancil said a majority of the equipment was obtained through a Midwest Open Air Museum Show hosted by Sauder Village, based in Archbald, Ohio. People who attended the show were encouraged to place business cards on pieces of equipment they hoped to obtain as the organization was downsizing its collection. Wellington Farm, USA ended up receiving two semi trailers with agriculture artifacts.

Wellington Farm, USA opened in 1996 by founders Gloria and Howard Taylor. A number of volunteers, known as Farm Folk, have kept the farm park operating.

"It's a major, major thing to keep up," Howard Taylor said.

The farm park hosts several major events from June through December, along with five classic country music shows.

"There is always something going on and people get a kick out of it," Stancil said.

The farm park draws 8,000 to 10,000 people annually, including bus tours, school groups and other gatherings.

"I can't help but think this is a viable economic asset to Crawford County," Howard Taylor said.

Challenger asks for ballot recount

by Dan Sanderson
Staff Writer

A recount was requested Monday for a township supervisor's race that was decided by a half dozen votes.

Max Meisner, who challenged incumbent Beaver Creek Township Supervisor Brian Ashton, filed a petition to have ballots recounted on Monday, said Crawford County Clerk/Register of Deeds Sandra Moore.

At the primary election polls on Tuesday, Aug. 7, Ashton received 236 votes, while 230 voters supported Meisner.

Some ballots in the election were in question, and Beaver Creek Township was the last municipality in the county to turn their election results in at the Crawford County Building.

The Crawford County Board of Canvassers will meet at 1 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 17 to recount the ballots.

Ashton was given until Wednesday to decide if he wanted to file a counter petition. He was also informed that he could be present at the recount.

Paul Ryan for Veep raises questions

THE SELECTION process that produced US Rep. Paul Ryan for his vice presidential running mate was deftly handled by Gov. Mitt Romney and his campaign staff.

Although it was widely accepted that Rep. Ryan's name was on Mr. Romney's "short list" for Veep, he hadn't topped that short list in the minds of most political analysts.

There had been no leaks during the long search of potential vice presidents, but enough names appeared on the fluctuating roster that the Romney campaign milked loads of suspenseful publicity. So score one for the Romney organization.

Now we have the complete picture for November - Mitt Romney and Paul Ryan on one side of the ballot, President Barack Obama and Vice President Joe Biden on the other. Vote for one and you get two.

QUESTIONS immediately arise whether the choice of Rep. Ryan will help or hurt the Romney ticket. Did Mitt Romney choose his running mate wisely?

Early opinions differ, of course, and usually follow a partisan line.

As I see it, Paul Ryan brings several advantages to the Romney candidacy.

Mr. Ryan is a solid favorite of conservative Republicans, many of whom still have not embraced Mr. Romney completely. Mr. Ryan's credentials may add strength there.

Mr. Ryan has spent most of his career in and around Congress. He was elected to the first of seven terms in Congress at age 28, and earlier held staff jobs with various legislators. Mr. Romney lacks Washington experience, which actually is one of his strengths. But if the Romney-Ryan ticket should win, Mr. Romney's private business experience should coalesce well with Mr. Ryan's experience in the legislative process.

The two men seem to like and respect each other, which is a definite asset both in campaigning and then, if elected, working together trying to solve the nation's problems.

The primary criterion for any vice president should be whether he is qualified to be president, and Mr. Ryan seems to fill that bill, too.

DRAWBACKS of a Romney-Ryan ticket also are apparent, and the Obama-Biden opposition will dwell on these.

Mr. Ryan is chair of the House Budget committee and has offered several budget proposals for congressional consideration. House Republicans generally have favored his ideas, and Senate Democrats have opposed them.

The Ryan budgets generally include lower taxes for business and rich taxpayers, reducing federal spending to balance budgets, and changing several programs, including social security, Medicaid and Medicare. Democrats can attack these budget proposals and slice up Rep. Ryan and Gov. Romney for pushing them.

Because of his close ties to Tea Party Republicans, Paul Ryan can be targeted by Democratic opponents for these associations, especially when attempting to shore up Democratic voters who may be wavering.

In short, Paul Ryan on the Republican ticket can be fodder for vigorous Democratic campaigning among non-committed voters, and make the overall campaign for president even more shrilly partisan than it is now if further deterioration of rational public discourse is even possible.

THE BOTTOM line on

Ryan for Vice President will not be known until the votes are counted.

Did he hurt or help Mitt Romney's quest? I'm inclined to think he will be more of an asset than a liability to the Romney ticket.

He's young, has an attractive young family, is a good speaker, and has inside GOP connections. Paul Ryan is a small town, mid-America success story who once worked a summer job as a salesman for the Oscar Mayer hot dog company and even drove the famous Oscar Mayer Wienermobile.

His nomination tends to draw a much more direct comparison of what the country will get if the Romney-Ryan ticket should win, in contrast to what the country will get if the Obama-Biden ticket is reelected.

It's well to keep in mind the salient fact that if the Romney-Ryan ticket wins, Mr. Romney will be the president and Mr. Ryan will be vice president, just as if the Obama-Biden ticket wins again, Mr. Obama still will be president, and Mr. Biden still will be vice president.

Once out of office - and sometimes while still holding the job - few remember a vice president or what he did in the job.

John Nance Garner of Texas, who served as vice president during the first two terms of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, once described being vice president as "not worth a bucket of warm sweat" or something like that.

In most cases, history shows that analysis is correct.

Drive sober or get pulled over

Michigan law enforcement has a message for the state's motorists, Drive Sober or Get Pulled Over. Beginning August 16 Crawford County Sheriff's Office will step up enforcement and be on the lookout for impaired drivers during an end-of-summer drunk driving crackdown.

The extra patrols in Crawford County are part of the national Labor Day holiday drunk driving crackdown and will continue through September 3.

"The best way to avoid an arrest and potential tragedy is to plan before you party by designating a sober driver, taking a cab or spending the night," said Sheriff Wakefield. "Law enforcement officers will be watching. If we see you driving drunk we will stop and arrest you. No questions asked. No second chances."

During the 2011 Labor Day holiday period, 12 people died in crashes on Michigan roadways. Four of those deaths involved alcohol, two of the fatalities were motorcyclists and four people were not wearing a seat belt.

In Michigan, a motorist can be arrested for drunk driving with .08 blood alcohol content or higher. A drunk driving conviction is costly and comes with assorted penalties including fines, legal fees, driver responsibility fees, court costs and higher insurance rates.

Motorists arrested for drunk driving with a .17 blood alcohol content face increased penalties including the possible installation of an ignition interlock device preventing the car from starting if the driver has been drinking.

In 2011, 319 people died in Michigan as a result of alcohol and/or drug-involved traffic crashes, a 10.6 percent decrease from 2010.

Washington Notes

By Carl Levin, U.S. Senator (D-Michigan)

How a global bank brought big risks to the U.S.

For today's sprawling international banks, access to the U.S. financial system is a must. Global banks want access to U.S. dollars, and U.S. wire transfer systems. And they want the safety, efficiency, and reliability that are the hallmarks of U.S. banking.

But some banks abuse that access. The Senate's Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations, which I chair, recently released a report and held a hearing on how one such global bank, HSBC, exposed the U.S. financial system to abuse by money launderers, drug kingpins, terrorists, and rogue nations such as Iran.

HSBC, headquartered in London, has been among the most active banks in Asia, the Middle East, and Africa. It first acquired a U.S. presence in the 1980s; today its leading U.S. affiliate is HSBC Bank USA. The bank has more than 470 branches across the United States and 4 million customers.

But HSBC's history in the United States is one of poor protections against illicit money flows. In 2003, the Federal Reserve and New York State Banking Department required the bank to revamp its anti-money laundering program. And in 2010, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency again demanded changes. The OCC cited massive failures in HSBC's monitoring system.

To examine these issues, the subcommittee issued subpoenas, reviewed more than 1.4 million documents, and conducted extensive interviews with HSBC officials from around the world, as well as officials at other banks, and with federal regulators. Our evidence showed five key areas in which HSBC exposed the U.S. financial system to abuse:

HSBC's U.S. bank failed to adequately monitor transactions with HSBC banks in nations at high risk of financial crime. For example, the U.S. unit allowed millions of dollars of transactions with its sibling in Mexico, despite warnings from law enforcement agencies in the U.S. and Mexico that there was a high risk of involvement with drug kingpins.

HSBC units in Europe and the Middle East conducted transactions with the U.S. unit while hiding the fact that the transactions involved rogue regimes such as Iran, Sudan and North Korea. From 2001 to 2007, HSBC units overseas sent 25,000 transactions involving Iran, worth $19 billion, and in 85 percent of those transactions, concealed the links to Iran.

HSBC's U.S. bank did business with offshore banks linked to terrorist financing. For example, it opened an account for a Saudi Arabian bank with known links to terror groups when the Saudi bank threatened to pull its business from HSBC worldwide unless it could open a U.S. account.

HSBC cleared hundreds of millions of dollars in suspicious bulk travelers' cheques. One Japanese bank regularly sent HSBC's U.S. bank $500,000 or more a day in such cheques, all sequentially numbered and signed with the same illegible signature - sure signs of wrongdoing. When regulators forced HSBC to investigate, the Japanese bank could provide no information about the mysterious Russian clients behind the transactions.

HSBC offered bank accounts to what are known as bearer-share corporations, a form of corporation prone to money laundering and other illicit activities because it can be used to conceal the true owners of the corporation. One such HSBC account was used by a father-son team of Florida developers who later were convicted of tax fraud.

It's deplorable that a bank would demonstrate such weak defenses against terrorists, drug money and rogue regimes. But making matters worse is the poor effort by the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, HSBC's main U.S. regulator. The OCC knew of and tolerated HSBC's unacceptable performance for more than five years without taking a single enforcement action.

Our report includes a number of recommended changes, for both HSBC and the OCC. Officials at the bank and the regulatory agency have promised improvements, and the steps they have announced so far are welcome. HSBC cooperated with our investigation, and its leaders apologized at our hearing. But promised changes have failed to materialize in the past. This global bank, and the agency that oversees it, must do a better job of protecting Americans from the illicit flows of money that enable crime, terrorism and weapons proliferation.

Carl Levin is the senior U.S. senator from Michigan.

Mercy Hospice to host 4th annual Ramble to the Pines

Mercy Hospice of Grayling will host its 4th Annual Ramble to the Pines, a hybrid memorial event and fundraiser for the hospice, on Sept. 8. Taking place along the six mile bike path between the Grayling City Hall and the entrance of Hartwick Pines State Park, participants can walk, run, or bike their way along the trail, between four rest stations and amongst others who have had loved ones on hospice services or friends of the hospice program.

Participants who register for $25 or higher will receive a free t-shirt for the event. Personalized hand-made ceramic leaves will be waiting for pick up at designated spots along the route, free of cost, for families or friends of patients who have died while in the care of Mercy Hospice within the past year.

This year, the hospice is also giving away prizes for the highest dollar amount raised by an individual participant and the highest dollar amount raised by a team or group.

The event will also feature a mobile silent auction in which items will be displayed and available to bid on at both the beginning of the walk and at the end.

"This event is twofold, for those who have had loved ones on service, we look at it as a memorial service," states Jillian Tremonti, Volunteer Coordinator at Mercy Hospice, "and for friends of the hospice, we are coming together to fundraise in order for us here at the hospice to continue our work."

As a non-profit organization, Mercy Hospice is committed to making the last few weeks or months of our patients' lives as comfortable and love-filled as possible. Mercy Hospice feels that they are privileged to be able to participate with families in this process of their lives.

"Through participating in the Ramble to the Pines, you chose to support us in our mission to aid families and patients in making this important transition," explains Tremonti.

Mercy Hospice has been serving northern Michigan families for a quarter of a century, covering Crawford, Roscommon, Otsego, Montmorency, Kalkaska, Oscoda, Ogemaw, Clare, and Gladwin counties.

To register or donate to the event, contact the hospice at 989-348-4383.

The Bible Speaks

Creation Replacing the Creator?

God described man's move from theism to paganism in Romans 1:22,23: "22Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools, 23And changed the glory of the uncorruptible God into an image made like to corruptible man, and to birds, and fourfooted beasts, and creeping things. The Deep Ecology movement has extended this movement into the worship of plant life also. "Environmental issues are, for many people, religious issues," said Bron Taylor, a professor of both environmental and religious studies at the University of Wisconsin. Taylor added, "Whenever people invoke the language of the sacred, we're entering the realm of religion." The logic of evolution leads to the worship of creation over the Creator.

"You can preach that trees are sacred, that the Earth is my mother, the sun is my father and all that. But in demanding that the government accept your beliefs, you've crossed the line," said Stephen Young, the former dean of Hamline Law School in St. Paul. Young, believes Deep Ecology passes that test introduced by a Norwegian philosopher in the 1970s, Deep Ecology holds that the natural world has intrinsic worth. It is not a commodity. And humans have no right to plunder it or to tamper with the grand sweep of evolution by destroying habitat or driving species to extinction. To Young, it's clear this philosophy constitutes a religion because it offers believers a comprehensive framework for understanding the cosmos and their place in it. In his view, pressing Deep Ecology on the Forest Service amounts not to lobbying but to proselytizing. Young says, " (Deep Ecology) is an earth-based belief system which can't be proven by science."

After an interview with Kiernan Suckling of the Southwest Biodiversity Center in Tucson, Arizona, Zane Walley, journalist and analyst for the Paragon Foundation said: "Kieran openly surrenders reasoning to a view that all species, animal and plant, are as important, if not more so, than humans. He is represented in mainstream newspapers, including the New York Times as the 'Green Savior.'" In a New York case, for instance, a federal judge held that a public school's Earth Day ceremony crossed the line into religious advocacy when students were asked to give gifts to Mother Earth and to listen to prayers to a "Holy Earth Mother."

In direct contrast to the Pantheistic view of deep ecology stands God's creation mandate: (Gen. 1:27-29) "So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them. 28And God blessed them, and God said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it: and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth. 29And God said, Behold, I have given you every herb bearing seed, which is upon the face of all the earth, and every tree, in the which is the fruit of a tree yielding seed; to you it shall be for meat." God charges us to trust "...in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy." (1 Tim. 6:17) God's creation is not for worship or abuse, but for joyful use. (1 Cor 7:21) Radical environmentalism worships and serves the creation instead of our Creator, God. (Rom 1:25). Pastor "B"

Bra Tree during their pre-race practice regimen.

"It's just a unique spot," Halstead said. "When you first start paddling during the spring, it doesn't have many bras, but over the summer it ends up having quite a few bras."

Since the race, five bras have been added to the Bra Tree.

"The tree is pretty well decorated right now," Stansbury said.

One is black, with pink embroidery. One side said Brat 2012, while the other side says Flint, Michigan.

"It is beautiful," Latoff said.

Another bra, which still has a price tag on it, has one side decorated with yellow and orange markers with a smiley face and a picture of the sun on the other side.

"There's quite a few that people put a lot of time and thought into," Stansbury said.

Stansbury has kept all the bras over the years, which he keeps in paper grocery bags. He estimated that there are 200 bras in the Bra Tree collection.

There is no nudity involved with the Bra Tree donations, since most people bring the bras with them on their trips down the river.

"It's been a lot of fun over the years," Stansbury said.

Stansbury has been coming to his family's property on the AuSable River for 60 years, since he was 6-years-old. He purchased the property from his father, Eugene, in 1986.

"The area means a lot to me," Stansbury said. "My dad was a fly-fisherman and people on the river knew him as Lefty. We would come every weekend during fishing season all those years. This has been like home to me for all those years."

For 38 years, the Stanburys ran a business manufacturing paper tubes, which are used for posters, calendars, packaging containers and Pringles cans. Greg Stansbury continued running the business for 11 years. Then, he went on to run a plastics molding business, which manufactures plastic caps for the paper tubes.

Currently, Stansbury is taking the steps to live in the Grayling-area to enjoy a more leisurely life as the Bra Tree tradition continues.

"Now, it's time to retire and live on the AuSable," he said.

Rummaging for a bargain

The Crawford County Commission on Aging (COA) and Grayling Senior Center held their annual rummage sale last weekend in the building located next to Glen's Market. The sale, which raises money for the COA's activities and programs, brought in about $2,200. Above, Chris Matthews checks out a hockey stick that was among the sporting goods equipment at the sale.

Card of Thanks

We would like to express our great appreciation to the taxpayers of Crawford County for renewing the library's operating millage on August 6. By doing so, the three libraries in our county will continue to operate at an optimum level to serve every citizen through books and videos, children, adult and family programs, computers and internet access, as well as many other services this community has grown to love and expect. Millage dollars represent more than 50% of our operating budget. Special thanks to all those on the campaign committee who helped spread the word of the importance of the renewal, without which would have resulted in reduced hours, services and staff at a time when our libraries have seen increased usage and demand due to the strained economic times in which we live. We are so happy to serve the residents of Crawford County. Thank you, again.

Plans for county recycling program are at an impasse

In 1996, Crawford County and City Environmental Services, the former owners of the Waters landfill, settled a lawsuit which was initiated when the waste hauler tried to dispose of trash from a county that was not included in Crawford County's solid waste management plan.

The county agreed to pay Crawford County $75,000 to $150,000 a year to create an environmental monitor position and pay for recycling.

Bruce Patrick last held the environmental monitor position before he retired in 2009. Compo has been serving as the county's environmental monitor.

The county was able to negotiate changes in the consent agreement, which allows funding to go toward other expenses such as the salary to fund the school-liaison officer. The position is funded through a partnership between the Crawford County Sheriff's Office and the Crawford AuSable School District.

Compo said he thought plans for the recycling program had taken some strides forward, since Camp Grayling agreed to accept Styrofoam collected in the county. That would have cut down on processing and transportation costs.

Failure to come to agreement to help keep waste from heading to the landfill would force each municipality to focus on their own individual recycling efforts.

"It just seems to me that we're an impediment to them," Compo said.

Compo said the extent of recycling in the county was never defined in the consent agreement. He noted that the county has funded the purchase and replacement of recycling trailers, purchased equipment for the recycling center and purchased a forklift to help process and load materials before they are shipped downstate.

"We wanted more and we started with more and we did a lot of stuff," Compo said.

Currently, the county's general fund has a $730,000 shortfall and a $120,000 shortfall for the Crawford County Sheriff's Office road patrol heading into the next fiscal year, which begins on Oct. 1.

We've done a lot of stuff, but we had more money to work with," Compo said. "We're not immune to what everybody is going through. It's just getting tougher and tougher."

Rick Anderson, chairman of the Crawford County Board of Commissioners, concurred that some movement needs to be made on behalf of all officials at the planning table for recycling.

"I think Grayling Township wants out of the overall package and the other townships don't want to fund it," Anderson said. "It's as simple as that. We are at an impasse as this point."

Fall sports teams to play first games soon

Volleyball, soccer start this week, football next week

by Caleb Casey
Senior Staff Writer

The 2012 high school fall sports season – a campaign that will feature football, volleyball, soccer (boys), and golf (girls) – will begin soon. Official practice sessions began last week.

Football practices started on Monday, Aug. 6, and all other fall sports were allowed to start practicing on Wednesday, Aug. 8.

For Grayling High School, Tim Sanchez returns as head coach of the varsity football team. His group of assistants will again include Eric Tunney, Kevin O'Connell, and Jason Moyer. Chris Kucharek is back as coach of the junior varsity football team. JV assistants will include Ron Wyman and Joey Bancroft.

Tunney, who's also the athletic director at Grayling High School, said the football program's overall numbers are "good. Each team has over 30. We've got a lot of numbers, but we're young on both levels."

The football teams will both play twice before the school year officially begins on Tuesday, Sept. 4.

The JV football squad will open its 2012 season with a home game vs. the Roscommon Bucks at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 22. The JV team will play at Houghton Lake at 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 29.

The varsity football team will play its season opener at Roscommon at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 23. The Vikings will host Houghton Lake at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 30. The Vikings will open their Lake Michigan Conference schedule with a game at Charlevoix on Friday, Sept. 7.

The volleyball program started its practice sessions with tryouts last week (Wednesday through Friday). The varsity squad, after only a few days of practice, will play a tournament this week – the Roscommon Invitational, slated for Friday, Aug. 17 – and then they will not play again until Sept. 11. The JV volleyball team will open its season on Sept. 11. The school is not going to pay for a coach for freshman volleyball, but the program might continue the 9th grade squad as a "club" sport, with the school providing some support for referees and transportation.

Golf team looks to make state finals for third straight year

Vikings have 5 of 6 primary scorers back from last season

by Caleb Casey
Senior Staff Writer

The Grayling High School girls golf team qualified for the state finals last year and in 2010, and this year the squad – with five of its six primary scorers back from the 2011 team – hopes to extend the streak to three consecutive state finals appearances.

The team's overall numbers are down slightly, but the program lost only one senior starter from last season.

"We have eight girls on the golf team this year, which is down from 10 last year. Ten to 12 golfers would be a decent number, so eight is somewhat low this year," Coach Scott Baker said.

This year's squad includes: Angie Rouston (captain), Whitney Schans, Logan Miller (co-captain), Natalie Woodley, Elle Smith, Carly Dunckley, Chynna Clark, and Maddie Benardo.

"Our team strength is that we're returning five of our top six golfers from last year. Only losing one senior should help us keep our core group of golfers focused and determined all season long," Coach Baker said.

Rouston, Schans, Miller, Woodley, Smith, and Dunckley are the team's six returners.

"We have two new golfers on the team this year – Chynna Clark and Maddie Benardo – and I'm excited to see what both of these girls can contribute to the team this year," Coach Baker said.

The Vikings started their official practices last week.

"Practices are going very well so far. Our team expectations are very high this year and all of the girls realize that. Our team goal from day one is to advance to our third straight state finals. Early on we have placed an emphasis on putting and chipping – basically, the short game fundamentals. As practices progress, we will focus on getting our 18-hole scores lower, and consistency," Coach Baker said.

"As a coach, my expectations for each individual girl is that they continue to improve their overall game from the beginning of the season right up until the regionals at the beginning of October. Our team goal is to advance to our third straight state finals and place in the top 10. We have placed 12th in each of the past two seasons and hope to improve as a team on those results," Coach Baker said.

The Vikings will begin their season with the Farwell Invitational – an 18-hole tournament with approximately 10 teams – on Thursday, Aug. 16. The Vikings will host the Grayling Invitational on Monday, Aug. 20, at the Grayling Country Club.

HANSON HILLS EXPANDS DISC GOLF COURSE

Hanson Hills Recreation Area recently installed an additional nine baskets to its Pine Knoll Disc Golf Course. Hanson Hills Maintenance Director Billy Partello, above, designed and constructed the wood baskets.

Hanson Hills Recreation Area recently installed an additional nine baskets to the Grayling Rotary Pine Knoll Disc Golf Course.

The Hanson Hills Disc Golf Club has raised over $1,500 through its weekly Wednesday night leagues and has donated that money to purchase materials to build custom wood baskets. Basket design mimics the metal baskets that are already in place. The original course was nine holes with two alternative tee pads, allowing for 18 holes of play. The additional nine baskets will also have two alternative tee pads at each, allowing for another 18 holes of play, giving the course a total of 36 holes to play. For the rest of the fall tee pads on the additional nine holes will be carpet mats. The Grayling Rotary Club has donated $500 to cover half of the material cost of concrete for the permanent tee pads and the Hanson Hills Disc Golf Club is currently trying to raise the other half ($500) through its league play.

Billy Partello, Hanson Hills Maintenance Director, designed and constructed the wood baskets.

"It is truly amazing what a group of selfless individuals can accomplish, giving back to a sport they love and helping to grow recreational possibilities in this area. The Hanson Hills Disc Golf Club members should really take pride in this accomplishment," said Justin Andre,

Director of Operations for Grayling Recreation Authority, the governing body for Hanson Hills.

Softball

The Michigan Gold Rush, a 14U travel softball team based out of Harrison, recently concluded its 2012 season, taking second place at the ASA Eastern National Championship in Dayton, Ohio on August 1-5.

The Michigan Gold Rush squad consisted of players from Grayling, Harrison, Coleman, Gladwin, and Beaverton.

In Dayton, at nationals, the Gold Rush competed against 25 teams from eight states, including Michigan, Ohio, New York, Illinois, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin.

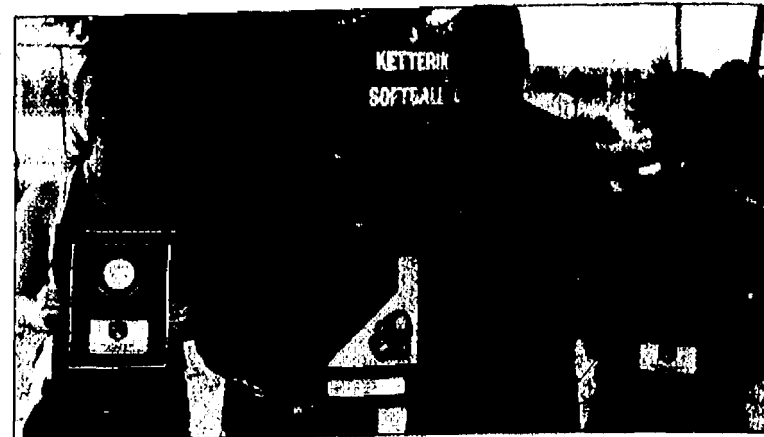

The first day of nationals started with a parade and introduction of the teams, pin trading, gift exchange, and a picnic for the girls and their coaches.

In pool play the Gold Rush won 7-0 vs. the Waves (Illinois). On day two, the Gold Rush won their pool by defeating the Rangers (Massachusetts) 9-0.

On day three, bracket play began and the Gold Rush beat the Elite (Pennsylvania) 8-0. They also defeated the Mount Pleasant Drillers 7-3. On day four, the Gold Rush faced off against the Waves again, defeating them 5-2.

The Gold Rush were one win away from the championship game, playing the Hawks (Ohio). The Gold Rush led 1-0 with three outs to go and gave up two runs in the bottom of the 7th to lose the game 2-1. The loss put them up against the Waves for the third time.

The Gold Rush won 1-0 in a shortened game due to weather.

After 12 straight hours of storms, the tournament was finally called. The Gold Rush did not get a chance to defeat the Hawks and took second place at the ASA Eastern Nationals.

Overall, the Gold Rush won four tournaments this year, placed 4th and 7th in two state tournaments; they also won the 18U recreation summer league in Midland and placed 2nd at the ASA Eastern Nationals. The Gold Rush posted an overall record of 48-6-1.

The tenth round of the State Championship Battle of the Bands wasn't really much of a contest. The d-Fenders from Grayling won by what one Saginaw disc-jockey termed "a fantastic landslide." Two bands from Grand Rapids and one from Fenton were losers to the d-Fenders as the local band swept away the title by 461 votes at the State Park Roll-aire rink in Bay City.

New sidewalks are to be poured from the Miller Hardware corner to the Avalanche. Workmen are in the process of taking out the old.

On Tuesday of this week, the start of the building which housed the Minnesota pavilion at the New York World's Fair began at Grayling's Bear Mountain. Difficultly upon difficulty has plagued the project since the building was purchased. The shipment of the building to Grayling was fouled up several times. After the units of the building arrived on the site, further difficulties were experienced in getting it started. But at long last on Tuesday of this week construction started with the Millikin Construction Company of Grayling and the Structural Plastics Company, original designers of the building of Osseo, Minnesota sharing in the project.

Punctured by over a thousand bullet anti-aircraft holes the Flying Fortress "Patches" really lived up to its name when it limped back to a U.S. Bomber station in England from a raid on Kassel, Germany.

The new head coach of the varsity squad is Lindsay Smith, who coached the GHS freshman volleyball team last year. The new JV coach is Melonie Richardson.

Nate Alyas will return for his second season as coach of the varsity boys soccer squad. The soccer team will also start its season on Friday, Aug. 17. The Vikings will host Ogemaw Heights at 5 p.m. The soccer squad will host Oscoda at 5 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 20.

After one season of playing home games at the Crawford AuSable Soccer Association fields (at the Crawford County Fairgrounds), the soccer program will return to Grayling High School's Viking Stadium for its home matches this year.

"Right now it's best for the program," Tunney said.

Scott Baker returns as coach of the varsity girls golf team. The golf squad's schedule was not yet complete as of last week. So far, the team's only home meet - the Grayling Invitational, hosted by the Grayling Country Club - is slated for Monday, Aug. 20, at 9 a.m.

"The senior class that graduated last year was pretty talented, so all of the sports across the board lost a lot, but we've got some good classes coming up so they'll have to fill those shoes," Tunney said.

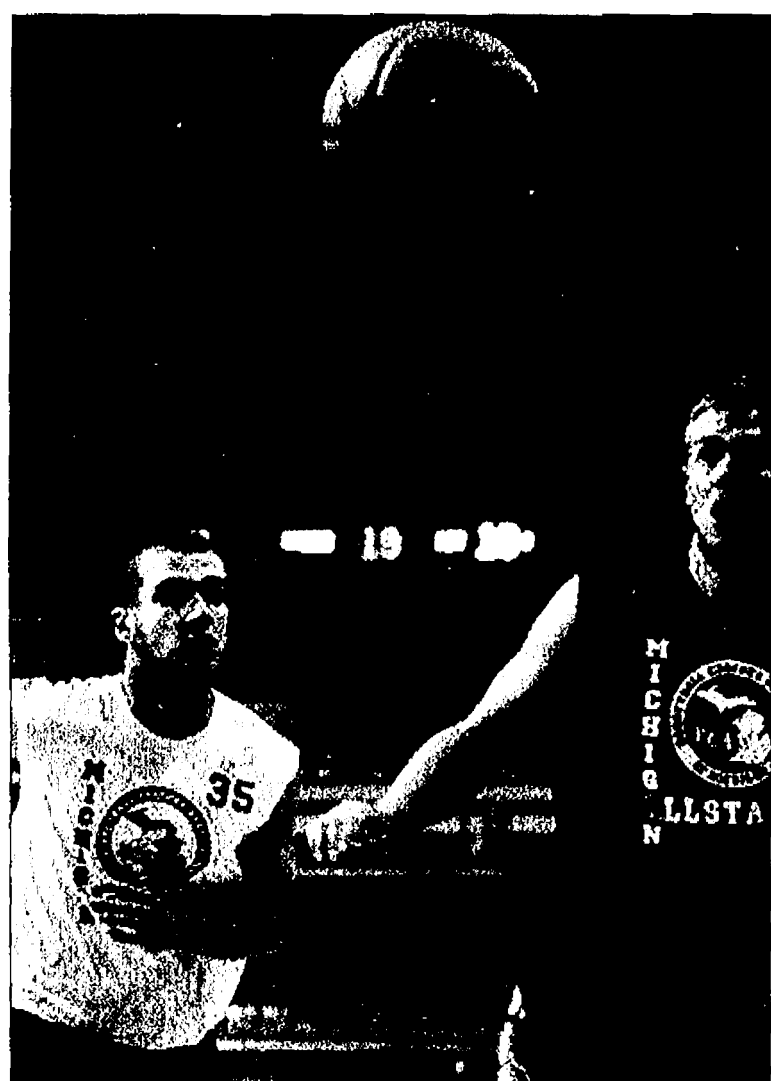

Season passes for Grayling High School's 2012-2013 sports seasons are now available. Passes can be purchased in the GHS office between 7:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. Cost is $150 (family), $90 (adult), or $25 student. Senior passes (62 and over) are free. Passes will also be available for purchase at the first two football home games (Wednesday, Aug. 22, and Thursday, Aug. 30).

Basketball

Zane Tobin, left, a 2012 Grayling High School graduate, played in the Basketball Coaches Association of Michigan Class A-B All-Star Game on Aug. 11 at the Palace of Auburn Hills. Tobin, who played for the "White" Team (coached by Carlton Valentine of Lansing Sexton), finished with 5 points, 3 rebounds, 2 assists, and 1 blocked shot. The "Black" Team won 97-94. Historically, Tobin was the third player from Grayling to participate in the annual all-star game. "Zane held his own vs. some of the state's best players," said Grayling varsity boys basketball coach Coach Moffit.

Grayling Country Club News

Tuesday Morning Ladies Golf League

We had another great summer day of golf at the Grayling Country Club for the Tuesday Morning Ladies Golf League. Carlene McMurtrie and Diana Amato are still holding first place and Linda Fouts and Balkis Shippy are in second place.

With only one more week of game play it is anyone's chance to come in first for the second half. There were four skin winners, each taking one skin: Linda Marcereau, Diana Amato, Linda Fouts, and Roxanne James. Diana made a chip-in for a birdie on hole #14 while Balkis had three chip-ins (#4, #5, and #18) and won low putts with a 28.
